LONDON, April 19—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Brussels reported today that three Belgian pursuit planes forced down a German airliner flying over a forbidden frontier zone near Liege.

BERLIN, April 19—A "far-reaching agreement" on outstanding issues between Germany and Rumania was announced today as the Nazi Reich began a two-day celebration of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's fiftieth birthday anniversary.

Hitler's birthday actually is tomorrow, April 20, but festivities got under way today throughout greater Germany. In magnitude and Nazi showmanship, the celebrations will surpass all previous efforts.

During the morning, 190 bombing and scout planes of the latest type flew over the chancellery, dipping a greeting to the Reichsfuehrer.

Flights of civil aircraft over Berlin from 7 p. m. today until 8 p. m. tomorrow have been banned. The announcement warned violators would be shot down.

Meanwhile, the government made it clear that it will refuse to accept the Anglo-French campaign of "encirclement" of Germany and Italy without a diplomatic struggle—from which Nazi authorities confidently expect to emerge victorious.

Gafencu in Conferences
Another blow was struck in the drive to break the Anglo-French "anti-aggression" drive following the arrival in Berlin of Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu for the celebrations of the Fuehrer's birthday and for vital conferences with German officials.

Announcement of the "far-reaching agreement on questions concerning both nations" was made after the Rumanian Foreign Minister and German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop held a lengthy conference.

Later Gafencu attended an elaborate banquet with Von Ribbentrop and other prominent German military and civil officials. A number of industrialists also were present.

Today Hitler received Gafencu in the presence of Von Ribbentrop. Later the Rumanian diplomat lunched with the German foreign (Continued on Page Two)

Execution To Be First Of Father And Son In Ohio History

COLUMBUS, April 19—The criminal careers of three persons drew to a close today as preparations were completed for execution tonight in Ohio penitentiary of a father and son and their companion.

There appeared to be little possibility that Governor Bricker would reconsider his decision not to interfere, so at dusk, within the gloomy walls of the century-old prison, Harry and Henry Dingleline and Harry Chapman will pay the extreme penalty for the Sept. 1937, murder of a Springfield police officer during a gun battle at Crystal Lake.

Not alone is the triple execution only the third of its kind in the prison's history, but it will be the first time a father and son have been electrocuted in Ohio.

Declaring their innocence and still stalwart after 13 months' confinement in death row, the men were quiet in their cells this morning, apparently resigned to their fate.

Last Visit Scheduled

This afternoon, according to Acting Prison Warden W. F. Amrine, the men were to be visited by their wives and other relatives.

At 8 p. m., Chapman will be led into the execution chamber in the prison chapel. Henry will go next and his white haired father, Harry, will wind up the parade of death.

Fifty-six year old Harry Dingleline and his 29-year-old son have long criminal careers behind them. Chapman too, is credited with an infamous past, having been a companion of Robert Cornette, notorious Southern Ohio bandit who met death in the Crystal Lake gun battle.

Previous to the Crystal Lake incident, however, the Dinglelines (Continued on Page Two)

Lindy Assigned to Make U. S. Air Corps Powerful

WASHINGTON, April 19—Armed with the aviation secrets of Europe's five major powers, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today undertook the greatest task of a spectacular career—that of making the United States supreme in the air.

The hero of history's first non-stop solo flight from New York to Paris, a reserve officer, became a full-fledged colonel in the Army Air Corps after a dash across the Atlantic from Paris in answer to a summons to active army duty.

He was sworn in at the office of Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Corps, and given an assignment of almost unprecedented nature.

Instructions Definite
General Arnold told Lindbergh to take an army plane, tour every research plant and important aircraft factory in the nation and then to tell the army what is wrong with its aircraft, how it compares with Germany's air might, and how the United States can get ahead, and stay ahead, of the world in the air.

Lindbergh, who reputedly has seen more of the "inside" of Europe's fighting air strength in the last two years than any other living man, was given carte blanche to study America's present aircraft development, and then tell what the Army Air Corps should do with its $300,000,000 aircraft expansion program.

Lindbergh, International News Service learned, was persuaded to break his self-imposed exile abroad and return to the United States to go on active duty in the army air corps, by his friend, American ambassador, William C. Bullitt, at the army's behest.

This, an informed authority disclosed, was his sole reason for returning to the United States at this time.

Still displaying a dislike for public notice, Lindbergh dashed into and out of the capital. He arrived secretly at the munitions building and conferred with General Arnold and other high air corps officials. It was not until Lindbergh had come and gone that Secretary of War Woodring late yesterday revealed that he had been called to active duty in the Army Air Corps (Continued on Page Two)

ADAMS, 34, FACES TERM IN PRISON AS MOTOR THIEF

Thomas Adams, 34, recently returned to Circleville from Houston, Texas, must serve one to 15 years in Ohio penitentiary for the theft of electric motors worth $125 from the Jackson township school in November, 1937.

Adams admitted the charge Tuesday before Judge Meeker Terwilliger of Common Pleas court and the sentence was imposed.

Adams is a former resident of Mansfield, O. He was returned to Circleville from Texas by Sheriff Charles Radcliff. Deputy Earl Weaver and County Commissioner Ralph May. Officers said the motors were sold in Columbus for $20.

Costs in the case amounted to $355.56, records in the clerk's office show. They are assessed against the defendant. Included in the costs is a charge of eight cents a mile for the trip to Texas, amounting to 3,200 miles, or $256.

COLUMBUS, April 19—The defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal was overruled today by Common Pleas Judge Cecil J. Randall at the trial of Daniel S. Earhart, former secretary to Ex-Gov. Martin L. Davey, on charges of illegal solicitation of campaign funds from civil service employees.

The court ruled that the prosecution had presented sufficient evidence to warrant submitting the case to the jury for a verdict.

Immediately thereafter the defense moved to have withdrawn from the jury's consideration all evidence, given by seven witnesses who testified yesterday. The motion was based on the allegation that those witnesses had (Continued on Page Two)

OHIOAN ADMITS SLAYING WIFE WITH TABLE LEG

DAYTON, April 19—Andy Kolb, 36-year-old Dayton barber, today admitted the murder of his 52-year-old wife, Mattie, police announced.

Mrs. Kolb's body was found late last night in the basement of the Kolb home where police had been called to investigate an alleged burglary. The body, police said, had been stuffed through a trapdoor into a sub-basement. Investigation disclosed she had been beaten to death with a table leg.

According to Kolb's signed confession, he killed his wife yesterday noon, put the body in the basement and, after cleaning up the house, visited his wife's sister. Last evening, according to the confession, Kolb went bowling, returning home about 11 p. m. When he found he had forgotten his key he broke the glass in the front door.

This, officers declared, gave him the idea of framing a robbery. After pulling out drawers to make the house appear ransacked, he called police.

Investigating officers said Kolb himself "discovered" his wife's body in the basement. Because the officers could not see the body from the same angle as Kolb, they arrested the barber. After four hours of questioning, he confessed. First degree murder charges were expected to be filed later today.

DEATH APPEAL DENIED

COLUMBUS, April 19—The state Supreme Court today denied the appeal of Harvey L. Rousch, condemned Marion county murderer, for a rehearing of his plea for a new trial. Rousch, convicted of the first degree murder of Homer T. Myers, wealthy stock dealer, is under sentence to die in Ohio Penitentiary's electric chair April 26.

BIG LINER SINKS IN PORT AFTER DAMAGING FIRE

VALUABLE ART LOST

U. S. Planes Unloaded During Flames; Passengers Transferred

LE HAVRE, France, April 19—Amid indications that sabotage may have been responsible for its destruction, the 37,000-ton French liner Paris sank today after being swept by fire at its dock.

Shortly after the vessel—once pride of the French line—went to the bottom in 40 feet of water, it was announced the famous French Surete Nationale (secret police) warned the French line two days ago that sabotage attempts "by a gang of foreigners" were expected against the liners Paris and the gigantic Normandie.

As a result, extra precautions were taken today to protect the Normandie and a rigid official investigation of the burning of the Paris was under way.

Passengers Transferred

Passengers and cargo scheduled to have crossed the Atlantic aboard the Paris will be embarked tomorrow aboard the liner Champlain, it was announced.

The Paris, which burned at its pier, went down suddenly after listing at a 30-degree angle and dragging away from its berth.

Firemen and members of the crew who were still fighting the flames when the vessel sank at 9:15 a. m. were thrown into the water of Le Havre harbor as the ship went down. They all were rescued, and authorities said the Paris will be refloated.

Minister of Marine Louis de Chappedelaine was en route to Le Havre to take charge of the situation.

The flames gutted the Paris, but authorities later estimated the total damage to the ship and cargo at less than $1,312,500.

Famous French art exhibits, valued at $750,000 and destined for the New York World's Fair, were aboard the liner when the fire broke out, but authorities said at least three-quarters of them were saved without being damaged. No passengers were aboard the ship.

United States war planes, which were brought to France aboard the Paris were unloaded during the fire, but also escaped damage.

Authorities said the flames which gutted the ship—the finest of the French line fleet before the Ile De France and Normandie were built—began shortly before midnight in the ship's bakery.

COURT REFUSES EARHART PLEA

Davey Aide's Trial Must Go On, Judge Randall Determines

COLUMBUS, April 19—The defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal was overruled today by Common Pleas Judge Cecil J. Randall at the trial of Daniel S. Earhart, former secretary to Ex-Gov. Martin L. Davey, on charges of illegal solicitation of campaign funds from civil service employees.

The court ruled that the prosecution had presented sufficient evidence to warrant submitting the case to the jury for a verdict.

Immediately thereafter the defense moved to have withdrawn from the jury's consideration all evidence, given by seven witnesses who testified yesterday.
The motion was based on the allegation that those witnesses had

OHIOAN ADMITS SLAYING WIFE WITH TABLE LEG

DAYTON, April 19—Andy Kolb, 36-year-old Dayton barber, today admitted the murder of his 52-year-old wife, Mattie, police announced.

Mrs. Kolb's body was found late last night in the basement of the Kolb home where police had been called to investigate an alleged burglary. The body, police said, had been stuffed through a trap-door into a sub-basement. Investigation disclosed she had been beaten to death with a table leg.

According to Kolb's signed confession, he killed his wife yesterday noon, put the body in the basement and, after cleaning up the house, visited his wife's sister.

Last evening, according to the confession, Kolb went bowling, returning home about 11 p. m.
When he found he had forgotten his key he broke the glass in the front door.

This, officers declared, gave him
the idea of framing a robbery.
After pulling out drawers to make the house appear ransacked, he called police.

Investigating officers said Kolb himself "discovered" his wife's body in the basement. Because the officers could not see the body from the same angle as Kolb, they arrested the barber. After four hours of questioning, he confessed.
First degree murder charges were expected to be filed later today.

DEATH APPEAL DENIED

COLUMBUS, April 19—The state Supreme Court today denied the appeal of Harvey L.
Rousch, condemned Marion county murderer, for a rehearing of his plea for a new trial. Rousch, convicted of the first degree murder of Homer T. Myers, wealthy stock dealer, is under sentence to die in Ohio Penitentiary's electric chair April 26.

VALUABLE ART LOST

U. S. Planes Unloaded During Flames; Passengers Transferred

LE HAVRE, France, April 19
—Amid indications that sabotage may have been responsible for its destruction, the 37,000-ton French liner Paris sank today after being swept by fire at its dock.

Shortly after the vessel—once pride of the French line—went to the bottom in 40 feet of water, it was announced the famous French Surete Nationale (secret police) warned the French line two days ago that sabotage attempts "by a gang of foreigners" were expected against the liners Paris and the gigantic Normandie.

As a result, extra precautions were taken today to protect the Normandie and a rigid official investigation of the burning of the Paris was under way.

Passengers Transferred
Passengers and cargo scheduled to have crossed the Atlantic aboard the Paris will be embarked tomorrow aboard the liner Champlain, it was announced.

The Paris which burned at its pier, went down suddenly after listing at a 30-degree angle and dragging away from its berth.

Firemen and members of the crew who were still fighting the flames when the vessel sank at 9:15 a. m. were thrown into the water of Le Havre harbor as the ship went down. They all were rescued, and authorities said the Paris will be refloated.

Minister of Marine Louis de Chappedelaine was en route to Le Havre to take charge of the situation.

The flames gutted the Paris, but authorities later estimated the total damage to the ship and cargo at less than $1,312,500.

Famous French art exhibits, valued at $750,000 and destined for the New York World's Fair, were aboard the liner when the fire broke out, but authorities said at least three-quarters of them were saved without being damaged. No passengers were aboard the ship.

United States war planes, which were brought to France aboard the Paris were unloaded during the fire, but also escaped damage.

Authorities said the flames which gutted the ship—the finest of the French line fleet before the Ile De France and Normandie were built—began shortly before midnight in the ship's bakery.

When the flames broke out, the vessel was fully loaded with food, fuel and cargo for its scheduled sailing to New York.

One man, the chief of the ship's fire brigade, was killed at the height of the fire when he fell into a hold. A fireman was seriously injured in a similar accident, and three policemen were hurt.

The Paris sank opposite the Normandie dock, making it necessary to cut off the Paris's masts, funnels and small parts of the super-structure to give the Normandie clearance.

Because of the art exhibits aboard the ship, special precautions had been taken to guard the Paris, but the fire broke out despite these.

The rapidity with which the fire spread led to a strong suspicion of sabotage.

French authorities refused to confirm a report that an Italian dock worker had been detained for questioning in connection with the blaze. Officials denied any arrests had been made.

and given a highly important technical assignment.

Lindbergh had landed in New York from the liner Aquitania Friday and had gone to the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, at Englewood, N. J. Nothing was known of his plans except that he had been invited to testify before congressional committees on foreign affairs studying neutrality legislation.

Announcement of his assignment, the first he has had since graduating from the air corps training school at Brooksfield, Texas, in 1925, surprised the military and diplomatic quarters. Lindbergh's task will be to undertake an immediate survey of the nation's potential air strength—governmental, educational and industrial—and to make a confidential report of his findings and recommendations to the chief of the air corps.

He began his job today, the air corps cooperating in maintaining secrecy around his movements. He was assigned an army plane at Bolling field, the army's air base, and was believed to have flown to Langley field, Va., where is located the research plant of the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, of which he is a member.

For his work, Lindbergh will receive the regular pay and allowances of an air corps colonel, of which, in addition to Lindbergh there are now only 55 in the aviation branch of the army. His pay will be $593.50 monthly, or a basic pay of $291.67, plus 50 percent additional flying pay and $156 ration and rental allowance.

PEARL L. BROWN DIES; SERVICES TO BE FRIDAY

Pearl L. Brown, 67, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Dresbach, 123 Watt street, at 8:20 p. m. Tuesday. Mr. Brown suffered a stroke last Saturday.

He was born March 23, 1872 in Vinton county, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Brown. Mr. Brown was a carpenter by trade. His wife, Elma Kinney Brown, died in 1936.

Surviving are his father, Elijah Brown of Newark, who is 92 years old; six children, Gilford C., Ray W., and Mrs. Nellie Burget, all of Columbus; Roy S., of Dayton; Willis W., of Hamilton, and Mrs. Florence Dresbach; one sister, Mrs. Charles Rush, of Ashville, one half sister and four half brothers.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Dresbach with the Rev. T. C. Harper officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery in charge of M. S. Finehart.

Friends may call at the home after Thursday noon.

THREE KILLERS TO DIE TONIGHT IN STATE PRISON

Bricker Not Expected To Save Dinglelines Or Chapman

dines' brushes with the law consisted mainly of robbery and bootlegging charges.

Not being of an emotional type, father and son have demonstrated no undue affection for each other during their death row incarceration, according to guards.

Interested spectators at the execution tonight will include peace officers from Springfield who will remember the bitter gun battle which followed a robbery in Springfield.

The Dinglelines, both of Springfield, were sentenced to death for the fatal shooting of Martin Randolph, Springfield policeman. Chapman heard the death penalty for the same crime. Deputy Sheriff Edwin Furry also was fatally shot in the Crystal Lake fracas.

Relatives will claim the bodies of all three men, according to Warden Amrine. Unless there is a last minute change in plans, the Dinglelines will be buried in Springfield while Chapman's wife will accompany his body to Chicago.

Von Papen To Turkey

Appointment of Franz Von Papen as German ambassador to Turkey was regarded as a decisive implication that he will be the spearpoint of the Nazi-Fascist counter-offensive in the Balkans, where negotiations between Turkey and Britain are now actively proceeding.

Von Papen, who once was German military attache in Washington, is an advocate of German colonial expansion and has received credit for preparing the way for German expansionist moves.

His greatest success was achieved in Austria, where he served as Chancellor Hitler's special representative prior to the Austro-German Anschluss in March, 1938.

Meanwhile, 40 German warships which assembled yesterday off Heligoland were enroute for "Spring maneuvers" in Spanish waters.

The vessels will visit Cadiz, Algeiras and Malaga between April 27 and May 1, after which they will visit Ceuta and internationalized Tangiers. From May 6 to 10, they will visit Ferrol, Arosa Bay, Ponte Vedra and Vigo, whence they will go to Lisbon, Portugal.

THREE KILLERS TO DIE TONIGHT IN STATE PRISON

Bricker Not Expected To Save Dinglelines Or Chapman

dines' brushes with the law consisted mainly of robbery and bootlegging charges.

Not being of an emotional type, father and son have demonstrated no undue affection for each other during their death row incarceration, according to guards.

Interested spectators at the execution tonight will include peace officers from Springfield who will remember the bitter gun battle which followed a robbery in Springfield.

The Dinglelines, both of Springfield, were sentenced to death for the fatal shooting of Martin Randolph, Springfield policeman. Chapman heard the death penalty for the same crime. Deputy Sheriff Edwin Furey also was fatally shot in the Crystal Lake fracas.

Relatives will claim the bodies of all three men, according to Warden Amrine. Unless there is a last minute change in plans, the Dinglelines will be buried in Springfield while Chapman's wife will accompany his body to Chicago.

Von Papen To Turkey

Appointment of Franz Von Papen as German ambassador to Turkey was regarded as a decisive implication that he will be the spearpoint of the Nazi-Fascist counter-offensive in the Balkans, where negotiations between Turkey and Britain are now actively proceeding.

Von Papen, who once was German military attache in Washington, is an advocate of German colonial expansion and has received credit for preparing the way for German expansionist moves.

His greatest success was achieved in Austria, where he served as Chancellor Hitler's special representative prior to the Austro-German Anschluss in March, 1938.

Meanwhile, 40 German warships which assembled yesterday off Heligoland were enroute for "Spring maneuvers" in Spanish waters.

The vessels will visit Cadiz, Algeciras and Malaga between April 27 and May 1, after which they will visit Ceuta and internationalized Tangiers. From May 6 to 10, they will visit Ferrol, Arosa Bay, Ponte Vedra and Vigo, whence they will go to Lisbon, Portugal.

PAROLE BOARD RIPPER READY FOR FINAL TEST

Surprise Bill To Reform Highway Department Put In Hopper

MYRNA'S JOB AT STAKE

Senate And House Approve Several Important Measures

COLUMBUS, April 19—Already passed by the senate, the Siebert bill, reorganizing the state parole board by substituting a three-member board in lieu of the present four member group, faced house action today.

House galleries were expected to be crowded when the bill came up for discussion. Intended primarily to oust Myrna Smith, secretary of former Governor Martin L. Davey, the measure has the endorsement of Governor Bricker but seemed destined to encounter concentrated Democratic opposition.

Meanwhile, House Majority Floor Leader J. Harry McGregor indicated that the $298,804,195 biennial budget bill would be ready for introduction in the house on Friday.

It had been the intention of house leaders to present the bill Thursday, but delays, McGregor said, will probably necessitate a Friday session so the important legislation might be received.

While house members speculated on the parole "ripper" and the budget measure, the senate was confronted with a surprise bill to reorganize the state highway department. The bill was introduced yesterday by Sen. C. W. Whitney (R-Sunbury).

Commission Sought

Whitney's bill, which burst like a bombshell in the quiet session, would create a five member state highway commission to appoint a state highway director and help the latter administer the affairs of the department.

Commissioner members would be appointed by the governor for six year terms. Their salaries would be a per diem allowance of $15 and necessary traveling expenses. Annual salary of the highway director would be $7,500.

Under the Whitney bill provisions, the highway director would appoint a chief engineer at $6,500 yearly and four assistant chief engineers at $4,500.

Reluctant to explain the underlying intention of the bill, Whitney commented briefly, saying, "I hope the administration will support my bill."

The senate yesterday, after considerable debate, defeated the highly controversial Pollock bill which would have permitted state university boards of trustees to purchase land and build dormitories and pay for both out of student fees. The vote was 22 to 10.

Other Bills Voted

Bills passed by the senate would: reconfirm state election laws; authorize municipalities to convey public lands to the federal government for the U. S. Public Health Service and exempt certain businesses, including financial and insurance institutions, from women's maximum hour law.

Introduced in the senate, besides the highway reorganization measure, were bills providing that state bridge bonds may be lawful investments of industrial commission and requiring railroad companies to employ conductors to supervise parlor or pullman cars.

Lieut. Governor Paul M. Herbert named Senators Whittemore, Ward and Whitney, all Republicans, to the joint conference committee to iron out controversial amendments to the tax commission reorganization "ripper." House members of the committee are Reps. McGregor and Renner, Republicans, and Petri, a Democrat.

Working speedily, the house yesterday passed eight bills. They would:

1. Give firemen an additional day off every 14 days and two weeks vacation with pay each year.

2. Exclude petroleum producers, refiners and marketers from "public utility" and "pipe line" provisions of law.

THE DYING KING
Let us consider the case of the Dying King—King Cotton. Some 10 percent, about 12,000,000 of the American people depend for their livelihood upon cotton, its growth, ginning, transportation and processing. It is the chief source of wealth in many important States. Since Civil War days its empire has moved westward, to include Oklahoma, Southwest Texas, Arizona and Southern California. It is or was our largest export crop. Cotton sales abroad have told the story in large part of good times or bad for many generations of our people, first in the South, and second, throughout the nation.

But King Cotton is dying, with immensely serious consequences to the entire nation. King Cotton has been infected with a serious if not a mortal disease—too much government. Both parties are responsible. Since 1928 and before, both Republican and Democratic Parties have tried to save cotton. But cotton has not been saved. Some eleven million bales are now in government warehouses which no one knows what to do with. With the best intentions in the world, two great parties have tried their hand with cotton. Both have failed. Both have created new problems for every old problem they pointed.

We had the Farm Board of the Hoover administration. And he remembered that it was a Republican Secretary of Agriculture who first advocated the so called "plough-up" program. In 1932 the Republican program had failed and the Democratic Party in their platform condemned "the unsound policy of restricting agricultural production to the demands of domestic markets".

Having won office they proceeded to adopt the unsound policy. They called it by a different name but they did not obtain a different result. After ten years of effort by both parties through government interference with the processes of free enterprise, cotton today is cheaper than when we started to save cotton. Cotton exports are lower today than they have been in 50 years. $500,000,000 of government money is tied up in cotton now in warehouse and it is costing $45,000,000 annually simply to carry this cotton.

World consumption of cotton is 650,000 bales more than the peak year of 1929, but world consumption of American cotton is 4,000,000 bales less than in 1929. This is the same thing as saying that foreign cotton growers are now supplying the market that American cotton growers formerly supplied. We have priced ourselves out of the world market. By all of the artificial stilt, subsidies, price fixing, etc., that we have put under American cotton, we have given the foreign grower the American foreign market. As Senator Walter George of Georgia said in the Senate in 1935, we have asked "the American farmer to sell out his business".

Thomas Jefferson said, "Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want bread". It has visions of law. (This bill now goes to Governor Bricker for his signature.)

3. Authorize change of destination of heirs after one year.

4. Permit counties having more than one common pleas judge to appoint not more than one short-hand reporter for each judge.

5. To eliminate preference when two or more writs of execution against same debtor are issued same day.

6. To reduce from 30 to 10 days the time in which a contractor bidding on state works must qualify.

7. Reduce the percentage of cost borne by the railroads in grade elimination projects and increase the state's share.

8. Reduce the percentage of cost borne by the railroads in grade eliminations in municipalities, and increase municipalities share.

County Tournament To Be Conducted April 29 On Athletic Field

MANY PRIZES OFFERED

Winner To Compete In Ohio Contest In Columbus On May 27

A county wide marble tournament, conducted by the W.P.A. recreation staff and sponsored by the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. through the courtesy of Frank Lynch, will be held in Circleville Saturday, April 29. Mr. Lynch will furnish prizes for the local contest and also arrange for the winner's transportation to the state tournament.

The tournament will be held at the Utilities athletic field and the first rounds will be started at 10 o'clock the morning of the 29th. Registration may be made at any of the recreation centers or playgrounds and all boys who wish to enter must register before the date of the tournament.

The winner of the county will be sent to Columbus to compete in the state contest on May 27. On this day each county champion will receive a medal, be provided entertainment and lunch. Many prizes will also be offered to contestants in addition to the chance of attending the National Tournament of Wildwood, N. J. the week of June 25 to July 2.

Two winners from the state will be taken to Wildwood with all expenses paid.

First prize in the national tournament will be a week's trip to the New York World's Fair with all expenses paid.

The boys of Circleville are urged to register early and get plenty of practice between now and April 29.

Boys fifteen years old or more who have their fifteenth birthday before July 1 are not permitted to enter.

ASHVILLE

Today, like many of the others, not much happening which is listed in the printable class, so the outsiders, salesmen of various lines, had to take "the third" which is made up of questions to fit the line. The first one we encountered in the early (for us) morning, was a middle aged salesman carrying a goodsized grip and he made inquiry of us where he could find So and So, and of course we knew this gentleman he wanted to see very well, and told him a lot he really didn't want to know. He proved to be a "special contact man" for a certain glass fruit can and which was, he said, manufactured away off in Oklahoma. But he said that made no difference, his cans were sold throughout the whole country. And when we opened up about himself, found that he was an old Pickaway county "boy" and had been in the selling game for more than 15 years. Hanawalt, and another fine one.

At the cost of getting "bumped off if we keep a word," we'll tell about it anyway, but minus the name. A farmer who has learned by past experience that just

EDWARD FENNESSY DEAD AT 84; SERVICES FRIDAY

A six week illness caused death at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday of Edward Fennessy, 84, in St. Anthony's hospital, Columbus. Mr. Fennessy, native of Circleville, had lived for the last five years with Mr. and Mrs. Percy May, Wayne township. Mrs. May is a niece.

The funeral will be Friday at 9 a. m. in St. Joseph's church, the Rev. Fr. J. J. Herman officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by Mader's Funeral service.

Mr. Fennessy was born in Circleville, Jan. 5, 1855, a son of Thomas and Isabella McGinnis Fennessy, both natives of Ireland. Mr. Fennessy never married.

He is survived by nieces and nephews.

wheat and corn farming with no sidelines, can't be done with any profit, so he is trying something new to him, he said, and see how it works out, and promised to keep us posted, provided of course, we'd promise to keep mum and say nothing. And that we'll sure do, cause we may want to get rich too, sometime. Said he'd "figgered out" how many dozens of good sweetcorn roasting ears one single acre of land would produce and at so much per, it meant a lot of money. Said he had the seed and ground all ready and would be doing the planting soon as the sun got to shining right. So we are really anxious to know how this experiment works out, and if figures do tell what they say they do.

Ashville—The funeral of Mrs. Newton Hollingshead will be held at the local Lutheran church on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. Fudge, officiating. Burial at Fernwood cemetery, Lockbourne.

Ashville—Contacted a number of our farmer friends who said all farming operations were at a standstill, and that if no more rain came, it would be several days before work in the ground could begin. And the growing wheat in places, is beginning to show the effects of too much moisture. And among these farm people was Henry Stump, school district Five, Madison, who near 70 years ago, was a pupil there with the rest of us. We know for sure none of us are old when our then teacher, Jerome Peter, 90 plus, is yet living at St. Paul and gets about quite well.

Ashville—Mrs. Hal Reid told us it was 64 years ago Monday that dear old Doctor Steward came along in his sleigh and that was her chance to get a ride, and jumped in, and she's been riding along ever since.

Ashville—Met a youngster out in front of the doctor's shop on Long street with his arm all bandaged up. And that gave us a good chance to ask a lot more questions. Said he and another boy were at play, that he took a tumble, lit on his arm and here I am, he said, getting it put together again. Attends school down at "the Ville" south of here and said arithmetic was his favorite study. English not so good, he thought. Said his name is Donald and we're guessing he's a fine boy.

THE DYING KING

Let us consider the case of the Dying King—King Cotton. Some 10 percent, about 12,000,000 of the American people depend for their livelihood upon cotton, its growth, ginning, transportation and processing. It is the chief source of wealth in many important States. Since Civil War days its empire has moved westward, to include Oklahoma, Southwest Texas, Arizona and Southern California. It is or was our largest export crop. Cotton sales abroad have told the story in large part of good times or bad for many generations of our people, first in the South, and second, throughout the nation.

But King Cotton is dying, with immensely serious consequences to the entire nation. King Cotton has been infected with a serious if not a mortal disease—too much government. Both parties are responsible. Since 1928 and before, both Republican and Democratic Parties have tried to save cotton. But cotton has not been saved. Some eleven million bales are now in government warehouses which no one knows what to do with. With the best intentions in the world, two great parties have tried their hand with cotton. Both have failed. Both have created new problems for every old problem they politticed.

We had the Farm Board of the Hoover administration. And be it remembered that it was a Republican Secretary of Agriculture who first advocated the so called "plough-up" program. In 1932 the Republican program had failed and the Democratic Party in their platform condemned "the unsound policy of restricting agricultural production to the demands of domestic markets."

Having won office they proceeded to adopt the unsound policy. They called it by a different name but they did not obtain a different result. After ten years of effort by both parties through government interference with the processes of free enterprise, cotton today is cheaper than when we started to save cotton. Cotton exports are lower today than they have been in 50 years. $500,000,000 of government money is tied up in cotton now in warehouse and it is costing $45,000,000 annually simply to carry this cotton.

World consumption of cotton is 650,000 bales more than the peak year of 1929, but world consumption of American cotton is 4,000,000 bales less than in 1929. This is the same thing as saying that foreign cotton growers are now supplying the market that American cotton growers formerly supplied. We have priced ourselves out of the world market. By all of the artificial stilt, subsidies, price fixing, etc., that we have put under American cotton, we have given the foreign grower the American foreign market. As Senator Walter George of Georgia said in the Senate in 1935, we have asked "the American farmer to sell out his business."

Thomas Jefferson said, "Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want bread". It has visions of law. (This bill now goes to Governor Bricker for his signature.)

YOUTHS URGED TO ENTER BIG MARBLE EVENT

County Tournament To Be Conducted April 29 On Athletic Field

MANY PRIZES OFFERED

Winner To Compete In Ohio Contest In Columbus On May 27

A county wide marble tournament, conducted by the W.P.A. recreation staff and sponsored by the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. through the courtesy of Frank Lynch, will be held in Circleville Saturday, April 29. Mr. Lynch will furnish prizes for the local contest and also arrange for the winner's transportation to the state tournament.

The tournament will be held at the Utilities athletic field and the first rounds will be started at 10 o'clock the morning of the 29th. Registration may be made at any of the recreation centers or playgrounds and all boys who wish to enter must register before the date of the tournament.

The winner of the county will be sent to Columbus to compete in the state contest on May 27. On this day each county champion will receive a medal, be provided entertainment and lunch. Many prizes will also be offered to contestants in addition to the chance of attending the National Tournament of Wildwood, N. J. the week of June 25 to July 2.

Two winners from the state will be taken to Wildwood with all expenses paid.

First prize in the national tournament will be a week's trip to the New York World's Fair with all expenses paid.

The boys of Circleville are urged to register early and get plenty of practice between now and April 29.

Boys fifteen years old or more who have their fifteenth birthday before July 1 are not permitted to enter.

Today, like many of the others, not much happening which is listed in the printable class, so the outsiders, salesmen of various lines, had to take "the third" which is made up of questions to fit the line. The first one we encountered in the early (for us) morning, was a middle aged salesman carrying a goodsized grip and he made inquiry of us where he could find So and So, and of course we knew this gentleman he wanted to see very well, and told him a lot he really didn't want to know. He proved to be a "special contact man" for a certain glass fruit can and which was, he said, manufactured away off in Oklahoma. But he said that made no difference, his cans were sold throughout the whole country. And when we opened up about himself, found that he was an old Pickaway county "boy" and had been in the selling game for more than 15 years. Hanawalt, and another fine one.

At the cost of getting "bumped off if we keep a word," we'll tell about it anyway, but minus the name. A farmer who has learned by past experience that just wheat and corn farming with no sidelines, can't be done with any profit, so he is trying something new to him, he said, and see how it works out, and promised to keep us posted, provided of course, we'd promise to keep mum and say nothing. And that we'll sure do, cause we may want to get rich too, sometime. Said he'd "figgered out" how many dozens of good sweetcorn roasting ears one single acre of land would produce and at so much per, it meant a lot of money. Said he had the seed and ground all ready and would be doing the planting soon as the sun got to shining right. So we are really anxious to know how this experiment works out, and if figures do tell what they say they do.

Ashville—The funeral of Mrs. Newton Hollingshead will be held at the local Lutheran church on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. Fudge, officiating. Burial at Fernwood cemetery, Lockbourne.

Ashville—Contacted a number of our farmer friends who said all farming operations were at a standstill, and that if no more rain came, it would be several days before work in the ground could begin. And the growing wheat in places, is beginning to show the effects of too much moisture. And among these farm people was Henry Stump, school district Five, Madison, who near 70 years ago, was a pupil there with the rest of us. We know for sure none of us are old when our then teacher, Jerome Peter, 90 plus, is yet living at St. Paul and gets about quite well.

Ashville—Mrs. Hal Reid told us it was 64 years ago Monday that dear old Doctor Steward came along in his sleigh and that was her chance to get a ride, and jumped in, and she's been riding along ever since.

Ashville—Met a youngster out in front of the doctor's shop on Long street with his arm all bandaged up. And that gave us a good chance to ask a lot more questions. Said he and another boy were at play, that he took a tumble, lit on his arm and here I am, he said, getting it put together again. Attends school down at "the Ville" south of here and said arithmetic was his favorite study. English not so good, he thought. Said his name is Donald and we're guessing he's a fine boy.

PROMISE VS. PERFORMANCE

WE are sort of beginning to understand those dictators. It is simple enough when you get onto their system. Not their system of thought, which probably nobody in the world can understand, but their system of expression. They go by contraries.

For instance Hitler said he wanted no alien races whatever in Germany, nobody but Germans; then he annexed the Czechs and Slovaks. He said Nazi Germany did not aim at sea power, then started building against Britain. He said he had no designs against Austria, then grabbed it. He said he was satisfied, and wanted not another foot of alien territory, and then went on grabbing.

Likewise Mussolini has professed over and over again the purity of his intentions, and then taken an opposite course. The latest example was his pious statement, just lately, that Italy was patient and did not want to disturb the world, and could wait a dozen years to get her just claims in the Mediterranean—and then moved to grab Albania.

In short, when they make a peaceful, sensible or humane declaration, you look for them to do the opposite. But when they make a threat, they sometimes live up to it.

EARLIEST AGRICULTURE

PERHAPS we have the Old World and New World labels on the wrong bits of civilization. Dr. Donald H. Brand, New Mexican anthropologist, asserts that human civilization, as measured by agricultural development, is older in this hemisphere than across the sea. Particularly, he holds the idea mistaken that agriculture originated in Egypt.

"If the beginnings of agriculture mark the dawn of civilization," he says, "then evidence collected by botanists and anthropologists indicates an earlier civilization in the New World than in the Old.

"Unlike wheat, and most other domesticated plants, Indian corn requires cultivation for its propagation, and scarcely an Old World species of plant can compare with maize, field pumpkins and kidney beans in the area of its spread at the time of Columbus."

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Testimony by witnesses before the Senate Education and Labor Committee relative to possible amendment of the Wagner Labor Relations Act is as complicated as anything that Capitol Hill has listened to in at least a decade. That capital and labor disagree as to that law's desirability isn't surprising; they generally do disagree. However, capital disagrees somewhat within itself, and labor is split violently. The United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers concur in the opinion that the law itself is all to the bad and that the personnel of the managing board which it created, under the present chairmanship of J. Warren Madden, is worse yet. Nevertheless the Senate committee has heard several employer-witnesses who contend that it's a fairly satisfactory piece of legislation, perhaps subject to a few modifications. Paraphrasing, these employers are chaps who get on exceptionally well with their help, and consequently haven't had any trouble in their plants since the law was enacted.

But labor? As has been widely advertised, John L. Lewis' C.I.O. considers the law a model and wouldn't have a single column in it altered. William Green's A. F. of L. denounces it as a measure designed to knock the A. F. of L.'s underpinning from beneath it and to build up the

C.I.O. In short, to the ruination of all of labor's best interests. Semi-neutral witnesses' testimony conflicts, too. Some of it is to the effect that the law is all right, but that the Labor Relations Board has applied it bunglingly. Other critics maintain that no imaginable board could have done a decent job under such regulations.

The nub of it is that the thing might work if the C.I.O. and the A. F. of L. could get together.

THEIR PHILOSOPHIES DIFFER

The trouble is, their philosophies differ.

Take newspapering, with which I'm familiar:

A newspaper has printers, stereotypers, engravers, editorial workers and whatnot.

The A. F. of L. always has argued that these groups should be organized separately as distinct crafts, though federated. Incidentally, it never has been overly friendly to the idea of recognizing the editorial crowd as a craft, in the union labor sense of craftsmanship. The C.I.O.'s notion has been to take the whole bunch into one lineup as an industry.

The A. F. of L.'s charge is that the Wagner law's board has taken the C.I.O.'s side in industry generally. It likewise charges that employerdom has taken advantage of the workers' dispute to play the C.I.O. against the A. F. of L.—for employerdom's benefit, and to the workers' detriment.

I don't know; it may or may not be true. If true, I don't know whether or not the Labor Board was right as to the side it took.

The fact remains that either the law needs to be changed, to suit all hands, or the board ought to be reorganized to suit at least both labor groups—not necessarily the employers. And if the law's changed radically, it would seem as if today's members of the board would quit from lack of sympathy with the rearrangement.

All this hangs on the findings of that investigating committee.

FATHERS RYAN AND HAAS

It is notable that the Rev. Mgr. John A. Ryan, director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, declares unqualifiedly for preservation of the Wagner Law.

The C.I.O. has been attacked as communistic, but it boasts for the Wagner Law. It seems unlikely that an eminent Catholic clergyman would support communistic regimentation. Father Ryan is one of the foremost sociologists in this country.

Father Francis J. Haas is advanced as a member of the Labor Board. He's another Catholic, certainly no communist. Father Haas is an educator of the first rank, an economist and a sociologist. He has been prominently identified recently with capital-and-labor conciliation activities. He's more or less in the class with ex-Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady, who could conciliate anything.

Plenty of conciliation is needed and no mistake.

STATE DEPARTMENT WORRIED

WASHINGTON—The reason April 28 is considered significant by State Department officials as a possible date for war to break is the fact that it comes one week after the German army maneuvers on April 20.

April 20 is Hitler's birthday, at which time the army will stage a tremendous demonstration. It will take about one week after that to place troops in position along the French and Polish borders, and it is feared that the main conflagration may burst at that time.

Originally, the German fleet was scheduled to hold maneuvers on April 20, and it is especially significant that the fleet jumped the gun and has already escaped to the Atlantic.

Nazi warships now can constitute a raiding force far more powerful than the famous Emden. German pocket battleships are superior to any British vessel save battleships, and so fast that they can steam away from all British ships save the Hood and Nelson.

NOTE—It has been a favorite German trick to let drop a specific date on which hostilities may start, thus throwing the French and British into a panic. Therefore the exact date of April 28 may have no great significance. What is important to the U. S., however, is that regardless of the exact date of "Der Tag", there is deep pessimism in State Department circles regarding the prospects of European peace.

TRIBUTE TO JEFFERSON

Frugal were the crumbs of homage which the House of Representatives handed Thomas Jefferson last week. Congressmen had thought the business of the day was over. Sam Rayburn actually had moved adjournment, and Bankhead was about to bring his gavel down, when Louis Ludlow of Indiana rose and asked for 20 minutes on Jefferson.

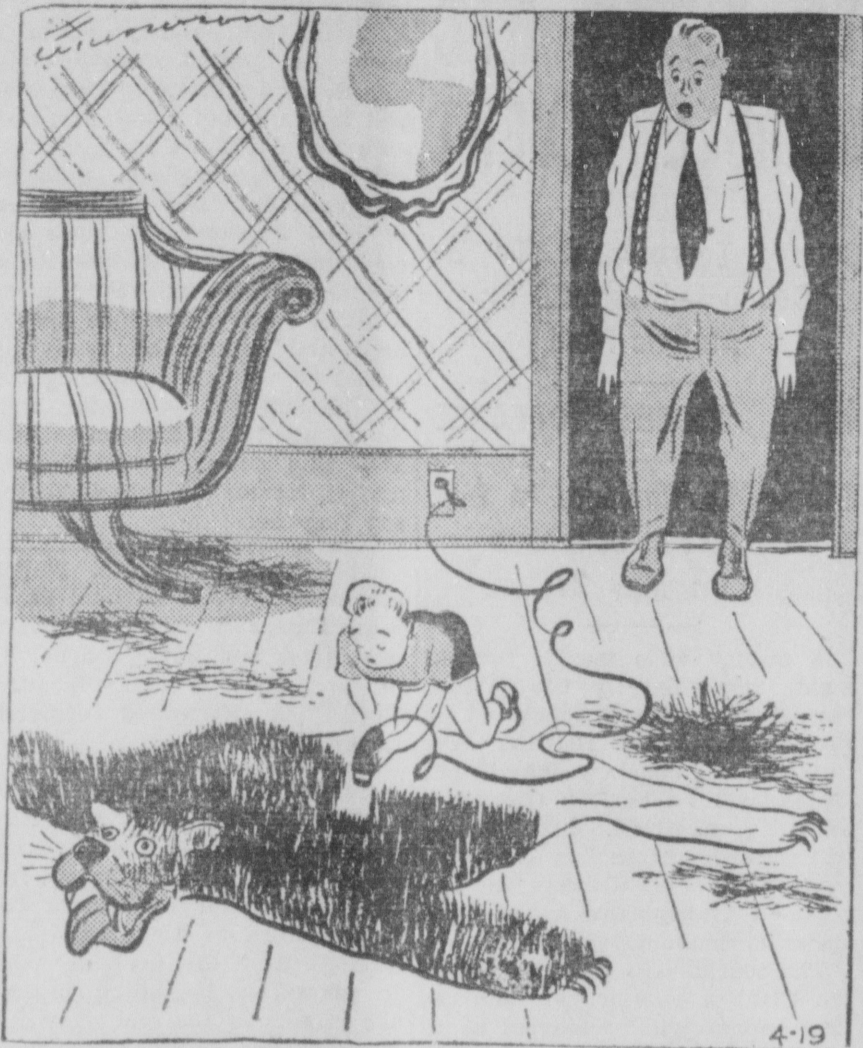

Members crowded the aisles to leave the chamber. The Speaker banged his gavel and cried, "The House is NOT adjourned." Members continued to leave. Ludlow brought his notes to the rostrum and declared he wanted to pay tribute to "the greatest humanitarian since Jesus of Nazareth."

Twenty members remained. Bankhead turned the Chair over to a substitute who tried to keep the twenty attentive. "We should reconsecrate ourselves," cried Ludlow, "at the feet of Jefferson."

Lex Green of Florida, in a Windsor tie, held court with two cronies at the rear of the chamber. Mary Norton of New Jersey, in a print dress, chatted with Reuben Wood of Missouri. Joe Martin of Massachusetts held a fight talk with Republican stalwarts on the other side of the aisle.

"Jefferson," declared Ludlow, "did more than any other man to free the human spirit." One man, Gene Cox of Georgia, broke into applause.

Attention to Beginnings of Tooth Trouble

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE TEETH of the American people are more healthy than most Europeans, but there is still great room for the prevention of dental ill-health in the young adult and middle-aged, largely by attention to the beginnings of disease in the young.

Perhaps the most serious significance placed on the condition of our teeth comes from an anthropologist, E. A. Hooton, of Harvard. He says: "You must know the history of teeth in order to appreciate them."

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

and because this history epitomizes human evolution, the control of human evolution is now in man's own hands—or perhaps rather in his teeth."

"Health at Stake"

Dr. Hooton continues: "I firmly believe that the health of humanity is at stake, and that, unless steps are taken to discover preventives of tooth decay and gum infection, the course of human evolution will lead downward to extinction."

Such a statement gains support from the words of Dr. Charles Mayo, of the Mayo Clinic of Rochester, Minnesota: "The span of human life may be increased from 10 to 15 years by the eradication of dental diseases."

And William Osler said: "The most important single thing in preventive medicine today is oral prophylaxis and the preservation of the human teeth."

More important than any other cause of the serious condition of middle-aged jaws is pyorrhea. Pyorrhea runs a long course from childhood on. It has varying stages, beginning with a slight recession or loss of tone of the gums, going on to sponginess and bleeding, moderate infection, then finally pus formation with complete retraction and loosening of the teeth in their sockets.

Causes Most Loss

There is no question that gum disease accounts for most lost teeth. In a survey made by the Life Extension Institute out of 110,000 examinations, bad gums were found in over 80 percent in the lower age groups and in those over 50 pyorrhea was almost universally present. At a large university clinic a study was made to determine the reasons for extraction. Of 14,000 teeth extracted from 2,800 patients, 40 percent were removed on account of pyorrhea. When the age of 50 is reached, 60 per cent of teeth are removed for this cause.

Ninety per cent of school children show some condition of the gums which may lead to pyorrhea later.

Brushing the teeth, and especially the gum margin, with a small, tough toothbrush, rolling the brush rather than shoving it back and forth across the teeth, will do most to toughen gums and prevent recession. Brush with a rolling motion of the hand, moving the bristles over the teeth in the direction of the spaces between the teeth. The gums should be made so tough that no amount of brushing will cause them to bleed.

In spite of the inspiration provided by his bride of a few months, Phil Parrish finds writing his first novel a tedious task. Phil and Eleanor, new to New York, where he is a reporter, live modestly in Greenwich Village. They had met on a small town newspaper. Eleanor had stopped writing when she had come to New York with Phil. She longed to do something to supplement their income, but Phil would not consider it. Phil introduces Eleanor to Kate Douglas, society editor of his paper. Kate needs part-time assistant. Eleanor finally persuades Phil to let her take the job. When Eleanor gets the grips on the eve of a party, she induces Phil to go without her much against his will. Eleanor accepts a few casual dates with Ed Hastings, a friend of the Parrishes, when Phil is called out of town for ten days. When he returns, Phil is furious.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER ELEVEN

PHIL WAS still asleep when Eleanor opened her eyes and the quarrel that was the last thing between them came back to her.

She slipped out of bed noiselessly and dressed quietly. She put on the green knitted suit Phil liked best of all her new things, and tied an apron over it.

There were popovers and hot chocolate and a light omelet on the table when he finished shaving.

Eleanor stood at his elbow, her fingers picking timidly at his sleeve. "I'm sorry, darling . . . do you think a good breakfast would make you feel forgiving?"

He smiled, but his smile was slow in coming. "Maybe," he said. "You really haven't forgiven, have you?" she said, when she lit his cigarette after breakfast. "It isn't a question of forgiving, Nell. I guess I'm just dumb. I don't seem to get you at all. First there was that night at the Link's party when you wanted me to go and . . . well . . ."

"What was wrong with that? I wanted you to have a good time." "Sure, you did. But you got sore when I said I didn't want to go without you. That's what bothers me. I don't understand you."

"Look," she said pleasantly and patiently. "We—you and I—are people. We aren't just somebody's wife and somebody's husband. We're individuals. We're not two parts of one person. We're two separate persons."

Phil drew in a long pull on his cigarette thoughtfully. He said: "Somehow I don't see it that way. I'm not the only guy in the world. Nell, who thinks that marriage is supposed to make two people one entity. Maybe you don't like being my wife."

"Oh, my precious," she said despairingly. "I wouldn't want to be the wife of any other man in the world. But I don't want to think of myself as a wife, or act like a wife. I think wives are stuffy!"

He grinned impishly at her. "You'd better pipe down on that line around the office. A fine home-making editor you make!"

"The office has a lot to do with it. But I can take an objective point of view about other women. Poor things! If you could see the letters they write in . . . 'My husband won't eat roast lamb.' . . . 'My husband wants me to vote Republican.' . . . 'My husband doesn't take me to parties any more because he says I am jealous of other women just because I cried when I caught him kissing that red-haired girl.' . . . It's enough to make you sick!"

"I'll look up a red-haired girl next time we go to a party and you try looking at it objectively, Mrs. Parrish."

"But, Phil," she said reasonably. "If you wanted to kiss a red-haired girl and I saw you, I might not like it, but I'd understand and excuse myself. After all, I don't think I'm the only attractive girl in the world."

"Yes, you'd excuse yourself," he

"Think about it for a moment, Phil . . . would that be the right thing to do?"

jeered.

"I would," he said calmly. "Well, I don't want to kiss any red-haired, or yellow-haired or green-haired girls," he said savagely, and threw his napkin down on the table.

He got up and walked over to the window and looked over the roofs, beyond the lines of grimy clothes strung there.

"Do you know what I'd do if I caught you kissing another man?" "Beat me?" she asked hopefully. "I'd act first and think afterwards. I think I'd poke him in the nose and leave you."

There was no laughing, kidding note in his voice. "Eleanor came over and stood beside him. 'Would you?' she asked softly.

"Yes, my dear, I would." "Think about it for a moment, Phil. . . . Would that be the right thing to do? Wouldn't you remember how much we meant to each other? How happy we've been? How much we've built together?"

"No, I wouldn't think of those things. I'd know that something precious that exists between people who are faithful to each other because they are enough for each other, was no longer there. I'd know that I didn't mean enough to you if you'd take anything as cheap as a kiss for a thrill I couldn't give you."

Eleanor put her hand through his crooked arm. "I wouldn't worry about that, if I were you, Phil. I don't want to kiss anybody else. Our bank account of thrills is pretty big. Do you want to hear what I think about Ed Hastings?"

"I don't think so." "I think he's a pompous fool. He's a bore. He's a hanger-on and rather pitiful. He's lonely. I wasn't lonely, but I was bored and lonesome for you. So I accepted his invitations."

"Nell! . . . The trouble with that sort of thing is that accepting invitations when you're alone might become a habit. Maybe the next man might be a fool and a bore, and another man may come along, and there might be a little moment of propinquity and then where would you and I be?"

Eleanor was tired of the subject. "You're just looking for trouble, there is some danger of deception and waywardness.

Phil sat down as if his knees had suddenly gone weak. He looked around the room because he didn't want her to see the mist he felt in his eyes. He said: "This is no place to bring up our child. We'll have to move. . . . When, honey?"

"Not until October or November. After a few weeks, the doctor says I'll be perfectly normal. I told Kate right away and she can't see any reason why I can't work till the last two weeks. Then I can have a leave of absence for two months. I'm going to get a raise because I'll take over a part of the society desk. I'll save my salary so that I can break in a good nurse to take care of the baby when I go back to work."

Phil said brokenly: "Nell!"

PROMISE VS. PERFORMANCE

WE are sort of beginning to understand those dictators. It is simple enough when you get onto their system. Not their system of thought, which probably nobody in the world can understand, but their system of expression. They go by contraries.

For instance Hitler said he wanted no alien races whatever in Germany, nobody but Germans; then he annexed the Czechs and Slovaks. He said Nazi Germany did not aim at sea power, then started building against Britain. He said he had no designs against Austria, then grabbed it. He said he was satisfied, and wanted not another foot of alien territory, and then went on grabbing.

Likewise Mussolini has professed over and over again the purity of his intentions, and then taken an opposite course. The latest example was his pious statement, just lately, that Italy was patient and did not want to disturb the world, and could wait a dozen years to get her just claims in the Mediterranean—and then moved to grab Albania.

In short, when they make a peaceful, sensible or humane declaration, you look for them to do the opposite. But when they make a threat, they sometimes live up to it.

EARLIEST AGRICULTURE

PERHAPS we have the Old World and New World labels on the wrong bits of civilization. Dr. Donald H. Brand, New Mexican anthropologist, asserts that human civilization, as measured by agricultural development, is older in this hemisphere than across the sea. Particularly, he holds the idea mistaken that agriculture originated in Egypt.

"If the beginnings of agriculture mark the dawn of civilization," he says, "then evidence collected by botanists and anthropologists indicates an earlier civilization in the New World than in the Old.

"Unlike wheat, and most other domesticated plants, Indian corn requires cultivation for its propagation, and scarcely an Old World species of plant can compare with maize, field pumpkins and kidney beans in the area of its spread at the time of Columbus."

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Testimony by witnesses before the Senate Education and Labor Committee relative to possible amendment of the Wagner Labor Relations Act is as complicated as anything that Capitol Hill has listened to in at least a decade. That capital and labor disagree as to that law's desirability isn't surprising; they generally do disagree. However, capital disagrees somewhat within itself, and labor is split violently. The United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers concur in the opinion that the law itself is all to the bad and that the personnel of the managing board which it created, under the present chairmanship of J. Warren Madden, is worse yet. Nevertheless the Senate committee has heard several employer-witnesses who contend that it's a fairly satisfactory piece of legislation, perhaps subject to a few modifications. Parenthetically, these employers are chaps who get on exceptionally well with their help, and consequently haven't had any trouble in their plants since the law was enacted.

But labor? As has been widely advertised, John L. Lewis' C.I.O. considers the law a model and wouldn't have a single column in it altered. William Green's A. F. of L. denounces it as a measure designed to knock the A. F. of L.'s underpinning from beneath it and to build up the

C.I.O. In short, to the ruination of all of labor's best interests. Semi-neutral witnesses' testimony conflicts, too. Some of it is to the effect that the law is all right, but that the Labor Relations Board has applied it bunglingly. Other critics maintain that no imaginable board could have done a decent job under such regulations.

The nub of it is that the thing might work if the C.I.O. and the A. F. of L. could get together.

THEIR PHILOSOPHIES DIFFER
The trouble is, their philosophies differ.

Take newspapering, with which I'm familiar:

A newspaper has printers, stereotypers, engravers, editorial workers and whatnot. The A. F. of L. always has argued that these groups should be organized separately as distinct crafts, though federated. Incidentally, it never has been overly friendly to the idea of recognizing the editorial crowd as a craft, in the union labor sense of craftsmanship. The C.I.O.'s notion has been to take the whole bunch into one lineup as an industry.

The A. F. of L.'s charge is that the Wagner law's board has taken the C.I.O.'s side in industry generally. It likewise charges that employerdom has taken advantage of the workers' dispute to play the C.I.O. against the A. F. of L.—for employerdom's benefit, and to the workers' detriment.

I don't know; it may or may not be true. If true, I don't know whether or not the Labor Board was right as to the side it took.

The fact remains that either the law needs to be changed, to suit all hands, or the board ought to be reorganized to suit at least both labor groups—not necessarily the employers. And if the law's changed radically, it would seem as if today's members of the board would quit for lack of sympathy with the rearrangement.

All this hangs on the findings of that investigating committee.

Eleanor accepts a few casual dates with Ed Hastings, a friend of the Parrishes, when Phil is called out of town for ten days. When he returns, Phil functions.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER ELEVEN

PHIL WAS still asleep when Eleanor opened her eyes and the quarrel that was the last thing between them came back to her.

She slipped out of bed noiselessly and dressed quietly. She put on the green knitted suit Phil liked best of all her new things, and tied an apron over it.

There were popovers and hot chocolate and a light omelet on the table when he finished shaving.

Eleanor stood at his elbow, her fingers picking timidly at his sleeve. "I'm sorry, darling . . . do you think a good breakfast would make you feel forgiving?"

He smiled, but his smile was slow in coming. "Maybe," he said. "You really haven't forgiven, have you?" she said, when she lit his cigarette after breakfast.

"It isn't a question of forgiving, Nell. I guess I'm just dumb. I don't seem to get you at all. First there was that night at the Link's party when you wanted me to go and . . . well . . ."

"What was wrong with that? I wanted you to have a good time." "Sure, you did. But you got sore when I said I didn't want to go without you. That's what bothers me. I don't understand you."

"Look," she said pleasantly and patiently. "We—you and I—are people. We aren't just somebody's wife and somebody's husband. We're individuals. We're not two parts of one person. We're two separate persons."

Phil drew in a long pull on his cigarette thoughtfully. He said: "Somehow I don't see it that way. I'm not the only guy in the world. Nell, who thinks that marriage is supposed to make two people one entity. Maybe you don't like being my wife."

"Oh, my precious," she said despairingly. "I wouldn't want to be the wife of any other man in the world. But I don't want to think of myself as a wife, or act like a wife. I think wives are stuffy!"

He grinned impishly at her. "You'd better pipe down on that line around the office. A fine home-making editor you make!"

"The office has a lot to do with it. But I can take an objective point of view about other women. Poor things! If you could see the letters they write in . . . 'My husband won't eat roast lamb.' . . . 'My husband wants me to vote Republican.' . . . 'My husband doesn't take me to parties any more because he says I am jealous of other women just because I cried when I caught him kissing that red-haired girl.' . . . It's enough to make you sick!"

"I'll look up a red-haired girl next time we go to a party and you try looking at it objectively, Mrs. Parrish."

"But, Phil," she said reasonably. "If you wanted to kiss a red-haired girl and I saw you, I might not like it, but I'd understand and excuse myself. After all, I don't think I'm the only attractive girl in the world."

"Yes, you'd excuse yourself," he

"Think about it for a moment, Phil . . . would that be the right thing to do?"

jeered. "I would," he said calmly.

"Well, I don't want to kiss any red-haired, or yellow-haired, or green-haired girls," he said savagely, and threw his napkin down on the table.

He got up and walked over to the window and looked over the roofs, beyond the lines of grimy clothes strung there.

"Do you know what I'd do if I caught you kissing another man?" "Beat me?" she asked hopefully. "I'd act first and think afterwards. I think I'd poke him in the nose and leave you."

There was no laughing, kidding note in his voice.

Eleanor came over and stood beside him. "Would you?" she asked softly.

"Yes, my dear, I would."

"Think about it for a moment, Phil . . . Would that be the right thing to do? Wouldn't you remember how much we meant to each other? How happy we've been? How much we've built together?"

"No, I wouldn't think of those things. I'd know that something precious that exists between people who are faithful to each other because they are enough for each other, was no longer there. I'd know that I didn't mean enough to you if you'd take anything as cheap as a kiss for a thrill I couldn't give you."

Eleanor put her hand through his crooked arm. "I wouldn't worry about that, if I were you, Phil. I don't want to kiss anybody else. Our bank account of thrills is pretty big. Do you want to hear what I think about Ed Hastings?"

"I don't think so."

"I think he's a pompous fool. He's a bore. He's a hanger-on and rather pitiful. He's lonely. I wasn't lonely, but I was bored and lonely for you. So I accepted his invitations."

"Nell! . . . The trouble with that sort of thing is that accepting invitations when you're alone might become a habit. Maybe the next man might be a fool and a bore, but another man may come along, and there might be a little moment of propinquity and then where would you and I be?"

Eleanor was tired of the subject. "You're just looking for trouble, Phil, and I refuse to indulge in morbid contemplation. We'd better both get ready if we are going to keep our jobs."

He said: "I wish you didn't have to go to work today, Nell. You look a little pinched around that nice nose for news of yours."

"That's because you haven't seen me for ten days. Remember me? I'm the girl who had gripe a month ago."

"A month is a long time. You ought to pick up by now. I'm afraid that housekeeping and a job are too much for you."

Eleanor didn't want him to talk about THAT. It might lead to his getting husbando and deciding she shouldn't work any more.

She said: "I think I'll drop in and see Dr. Benedict this afternoon. I get so tired when I walk upstairs. He may give me a tonic."

Eleanor broiled lamb chops for their dinner that night. The smell of the cooking meat made her dizzy. She said: "Phil, would you mind finishing them? I . . . I can't bear the smell."

"Sure, honey. We could have had something else, but I thought you liked them. That's why I brought 'em in."

"I used to . . . but . . . it seems that now I'm having a baby."

Phil said softly: "Say it again."

"You heard me. I don't blame you for being surprised. I was a trifle surprised myself when Dr. Benedict told me."

Phil sat down as if his knees had suddenly gone weak. He looked around the room because he didn't want her to see the mist he felt in his eyes. He said: "This is no place to bring up our child. We'll have to move. . . . When, honey?"

"Not until October or November. After a few weeks, the doctor says I'll be perfectly normal. I told Kate right away and she can't see any reason why I can't work until the last two weeks. Then I can have a leave of absence for two months. I'm going to get a raise because I'll take over a part of the society desk. I'll save my salary so that I can break in a good nurse to take care of the baby when I go back to work."

Phil said brokenly: "Nell!"

Election Session Conducted At Yates Home

New officers who will serve the organization for two successive years were elected Tuesday at the April meeting in the home of Miss Emily D. Yates, W. Franklin street. Mrs. C. C. Watts was chosen regent. Mrs. L. T. Shaner, first vice regent; Mrs. James Moffitt, second vice regent; Mrs. W. L. Mack, recording secretary; Miss Mary Heffner, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. L. Schiear, treasurer; Mrs. Orion King, historian; Miss Mary Wilder, registrar and Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, chaplain.

More than thirty members gathered for the session. Owing to illness, Mrs. Bryce Briggs, regent, was unable to be present. Mrs. Shaner, the first vice regent, conducted the meeting which opened at 7:30 p. m. with the regular ritualistic service.

Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, chairman on the correct use of the flag, led the members in the flag salute. During the business meeting it was voted to donate $5 to the Women's Field Army for the Control of Cancer. A national drive is being made for funds to further experiments and study in allaying this wide spread disease.

Mrs. H. O. Pile presented a splendid paper on the topic, "Book Lovers of 1738, one of the first Libraries in America". She said in part:

"In an old record book, bound in parchment and yellow with age, belonging to Mrs. Martha Hooker, is revealed the life story of the old library in historic Lebanon, Conn. beginning in 1738 and called by the long name of 'Philogrammatican'. It is the original record of one of the first libraries of America, and much of the handwriting is that of Jonathan Trumbull, the first governor of Connecticut.

"The pulpits of the meeting houses were occupied by the most learned men of the new land, and the Lebanon clergyman, the Rev. Solomon Williams, was one of the most ardent promoters of the plan to develop a system of cooperative reading, where the minds of his community might be nourished with intellectual food.

"Those with literary inclinations from far and near cordially endorsed the proposed undertaking. Clergymen from different communities became interested in the movement and formed the Library Association.

"Unlike modern library associations there was no constitution, no president or board of officers, but a strictly legal covenant was entered into and signed by fourteen men, who each agreed to contribute fifty pounds to purchase books. The promise of the fifty pounds was made secure in the covenant by the statement that their heirs, executors, or administrators were to pay if the original signer had not lived to do so.

"Forty pounds of the first purchase for the library was for law books. In 1740 an additional 'covenant' was made to the original one which requested that 'this library remain one joint library from generation to generation'.

"The propriety and moral influence of each book was thoroughly questioned before it was placed on the shelves and an order for books sent to England in the Fall could not be expected before Spring.

"The old record book was silent for 43 years, through a period of political troubles that no doubt demanded the entire attention of the scholars. Not until after the American Revolution does it speak again. Men who gave up intellectual development to fight for their country and liberty came back to their books after laying down arms.

"Many of those who organized the Philogrammatican Library in 1738 had died in the lapse of 43 years, and their sons had taken up the interest in the work. Then came the decade of constructive energy, when men gave the best there was in them to the laying of the foundation of the new nation. Library pursuits were left largely to the men who made a business of it. Newspaper press became well established; the post boy brought the news regularly; and in 1792 the old Philogrammatican Library passed into history."

The year book committee for 1939 to 1941 includes Miss Marie Hamilton, Mrs. Walter Kindler, Mrs. George Gerhardt and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson.

Mrs. Edna Newhouse of Williamsport, a new member, attended her initial meeting. Assisting Miss Yates during the social hour were Mrs. King, Mrs. Harvey Sweyer, Mrs. Charles Gussman, Mrs. Willis O. Dountz,

Kingston Eastern Star

Approximately 140 members and guests attended the inspection meeting of Kingston chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Tuesday at Masonic Temple, Kingston. Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett, worthy matron and George Grimes, worthy patron, were in charge of the ritualistic work of the evening. Mrs. Monna Eldrick served as inspecting officer.

The room was attractively decorated for the affair with Japanese and other Spring blossoms. Preceding the inspection, dinner was served to about 75 in the high school auditorium.

The guests from Circleville chapter, No. 90, included Mrs. E. S. Shane, worthy matron, Mrs. George Valentine, Miss Bertha Valentine, Miss Virginia Marion, Mrs. W. B. Cady, and Miss Marie L. Hamilton of Circleville, Mrs. Tom Acord and Mrs. Mary Borror of Ashville.

Salt Creek Valley Grange

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery, members of Salt Creek Valley subordinate grange, were honored at the Tuesday session of the grange, the occasion observing their 33rd wedding anniversary. After congratulations had been offered by the granges at the close of the program hour, Mr. and Mrs. Mowery, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Luckhart, their son-in-law and daughter, Max and David Luckhart, their grandchildren, led a grand march in which all the grangers took part.

Orley Judy, master, conducted the routine business session. Fifty-four members of the subordinate grange and 18 juveniles were present. Miss Nellie Ryan, juvenile matron, presented several of her group during the program hour. They presented readings on the subject of Arbor Day, including "The First Arbor Day," by Sara Jane Rector, "We Thank Thee, Father," by Dorothy Dumm and "Anticipation," by Louise Hawk.

A program of stunts in which all the grangers took part was conducted by Mrs. May Strous, lecturer.

D. U. V. Meets

Plans for the annual inspection of the Circleville Daughters of Union Veterans were discussed at the regular session Tuesday in the Post room of Memorial Hall. Twenty-five members were present for the meeting which was led by Mrs. Frank Webbe, president.

Mrs. Beatrice Vogel of Chillicothe will be inspecting officer and lunch will be served during the social hour.

Logan Elm Grange

Mrs. Lee Smith and Miss Mary Karshner presented the program for Logan Elm grange, Tuesday, at the Pickaway school auditorium. Miss Mary Shortridge gave an interesting talk on 4-H club work in the county.

Group singing of grange songs opened the program hour. "The Levee Song" was sung by a quartet comprised of Mrs. William Hegele, Mrs. Charles Dresbach, George Wilson and John Hegele. Miss Doris Leist played the piano accompaniment. A playlet, "The African Farm Society", a cooking school, was presented with Mrs. Smith, Miss Karshner, Mrs. Hegele, John Hegele and George Wilson taking the character parts.

George Wilson next played a saxophone solo with Miss Leist at the piano.

Under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Head, the group enjoyed a Spelling Bee following the close of the program. About 50 grangers were present for the pleasant evening.

Nebraska Grange

An interesting variety program was enjoyed by 40 grangers, Tuesday, at the regular session of Nebraska grange in the grange hall, Walnut township. Homer Reber, worthy master, was in the chair for the routine business hour.

"Believe it or not," was the subject of the opening talk by Junior Miller. A quartet comprised of Wilbur Riegel, Wilbur Huffer, the Rev. C. L. Thomas and Archie Peters sang two numbers, "The End of the Road" and "It's Morning in My Heart". Mrs. Huffer played the piano accompaniments. The Rev. Mr. Thomas gave a delightful talk on "Poetry", illustrating his points with short poetical selections.

Betsy Huffer presented a violin solo accompanied at the piano by her mother.

Beginning with the May meetings the sessions will open at 8:30 p. m. during the Summer.

Child Conservation League

Twenty members of the Child Conservation League met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. E. Groom of Park Place. In the absence of Mrs. J. I. Smith, Jr., league president, Mrs. Karl Mason presided during the business hour.

It was decided that the league would sponsor a card party Thursday, May 25 and tentative plans were discussed for it. Mrs. F. K. Blair was named general chairman for the card party.

During the program hour, Mrs. Don Walker read a very interesting paper prepared by Mrs. Ben Gordon, on the subject, "The Creative Home."

The next meeting of the league will be a luncheon session Tuesday, May 9, at the home of Mrs. R. P. Reid, W. Corwin street. Mrs. Theodore Huston will be assisting hostess.

Approximately 140 members and guests attended the inspection meeting of Kingston chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Tuesday at Masonic Temple, Kingston.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett, worthy matron and George Grimes, worthy patron, were in charge of the ritualistic work of the evening. Mrs. Monna Eldrick served as inspecting officer.

The room was attractively decorated for the affair with Japanese and other Spring blossoms. Preceding the inspection, dinner was served to about 75 in the high school auditorium.

The guests from Circleville chapter, No. 90, included Mrs. E. S. Shane, worthy matron, Mrs. George Valentine, Miss Bertha Valentine, Miss Virginia Marion, Mrs. W. B. Cady, and Miss Marie L. Hamilton of Circleville, Mrs. Tom Accord and Mrs. Mary Borror of Ashville.

Saltcreek Valley Grange
Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery, members of Saltcreek Valley subordinate grange, were honored at the Tuesday session of the grange, the occasion observing their 33rd wedding anniversary. After congratulations had been offered by the granges at the close of the program hour, Mr. and Mrs. Mowery, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Luckhart, their son-in-law and daughter, Max and David Luckhart, their grandchildren, led a grand march in which all the grangers took part.

Orley Judy, master, conducted the routine business session. Fifty-four members of the subordinate grange and 18 juveniles were present. Miss Nellie Ryan, juvenile matron, presented several of her group during the program hour. They presented readings on the subject of Arbor Day, including "The First Arbor Day," by Sara Jane Rector, "We Thank Thee, Father," by Dorothy Dumm and "Anticipation," by Louise Hawk.

A program of stunts in which all the grangers took part was conducted by Mrs. May Strous, lecturer.

D. U. V. Meets
Plans for the annual inspection of the Circleville Daughters of Union Veterans were discussed at the regular session Tuesday in the Post room of Memorial Hall. Twenty-five members were present for the meeting which was led by Mrs. Frank Webbe, president.

Mrs. Beatrice Vogel of Chillicothe will be inspecting officer and lunch will be served during the social hour.

Logan Elm Grange
Mrs. Lee Smith and Miss Mary Karshner presented the program for Logan Elm grange, Tuesday, at the Pickaway school auditorium. Miss Mary Shortridge gave an interesting talk on 4-H club work in the county.

Group singing of grange songs opened the program hour. "The Levee Song" was sung by a quartet comprised of Mrs. William Hegele, Mrs. Charles Dresbach, George Wilson and John Hegele. Miss Doris Leist played the piano accompaniment. A playlet, "The African Farm Society", a cooking school, was presented with Mrs. Smith, Miss Karshner, Mrs. Hegele, John Hegele and George Wilson taking the character parts.

George Wilson next played a saxophone solo with Miss Leist at the piano.

Under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Head, the group enjoyed a Spelling Bee following the close of the program. About 50 grangers were present for the pleasant evening.

Nebraska Grange
An interesting variety program was enjoyed by 40 grangers, Tuesday, at the regular session of Nebraska grange in the grange hall, Walnut township. Homer Reber, worthy master, was in the chair for the routine business hour.

"Believe it or not" was the subject of the opening talk by Junior Miller. A quartet comprised of Wilbur Riegel, Wilbur Huffer, the Rev. C. L. Thomas and Archie Peters sang two numbers, "The End of the Road" and "It's Morning in My Heart". Mrs. Huffer played the piano accompaniments. The Rev. Mr. Thomas gave a delightful talk on "Poetry", illustrating his points with short poetical selections.

Betsy Huffer presented a violin solo accompanied at the piano by her mother.

Beginning with the May meetings the sessions will open at 8:30 p. m. during the Summer.

Child Conservation League
Twenty members of the Child Conservation League met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. E. Groom of Park Place.

In the absence of Mrs. J. I. Smith, Jr., league president, Mrs. Karl Mason presided during the business hour.

It was decided that the league would sponsor a card party Thursday, May 25 and tentative plans were discussed for it. Mrs. F. K. Blair was named general chairman for the card party.

During the program hour, Mrs. Don Walker read a very interesting paper prepared by Mrs. Ben Gordon, on the subject, "The Creative Home."

The next meeting of the league will be a luncheon session Tuesday, May 9, at the home of Mrs. R. P. Reid, W. Corwin street.

Mrs. Theodore Huston will be assisting hostess.

Chillicothe Fun Festival
Members of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church were guests at a fun festival Monday at Trinity Methodist church of Chillicothe. Almost 200 Ross county young people were present including members of several new county leagues from Laureville, Springbank, Hallsville and Omega.

Eastern Star to Meet
The past matrons and past patrons will be honored at the meeting of Circleville chapter, No. 90, Order of the Eastern Star, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the chapter room, Masonic Temple.

Mrs. George Foerster will be chairman of the social committee for the party which will follow the business session.

Scioto Valley Grange
The regular session of Scioto Valley grange will be held in the grange hall north of Ashville Tuesday at 8 p. m.

Queen Esther Society
The Queen Esther society of the Methodist Episcopal church will meet Monday at 4 p. m. in the basement of the church.

Bridge Club Meets
Miss Evelyn Snider was a guest, Tuesday, when Mrs. Virgil M. Cress of S. Court street entertained her bridge club.

When tallies were added after the games, Mrs. Bishop Given received high score prize. Refreshments were served.

Christ Lutheran Society
The Young People's society of Christ Lutheran church met Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Van Meter Hulse, Jackson township. Mrs. Noah List, president, was in charge of the devotional hour.

Miss Helen Margaret Kerns presented the topic for the evening, "How May I Know Whether or Not I Am a Christian."

Mrs. G. L. Troutman opened the program with a vocal solo. A vocal selection was presented by a quartet including Miss Bertha Krimmel, Mrs. Hulse, Mrs. List and Mrs. Lyle Davis. The oration, "Profits in Death," was presented by Miss Jean List. The next number was a vocal selection by a quartet including the Rev. G. L. Troutman, Van Meter Hulse, Noah List, Lyle Davis and Harry Barthelmas. Robert Barthelmas and Jean List presented a duet number.

Games and contests were enjoyed during the social hour. Refreshments were served to 31 members and guests at the close of the meeting.

The May meeting will be at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Troutman of E. Mound street.

Pointers on Foundation Planting
Shrubs which are planted about the foundation of a building or at the base of a wall should be selected with a great deal of thought, keeping uppermost in mind their beauty of foliage and form. A happy choice of plant material usually consists of a combination of both evergreen and deciduous material.

One important pointer about foundation plantings is a warning not to place the plant material too close to the building. A practical method for correct planting is shown in the accompanying drawing. Place the plant or shrub at a distance from the wall of the building that is equal to one-half the "spread" of the mature plant.

When plant material is crowded too closely to a foundation wall, its roots will not have room for proper development. Plants placed against a foundation do not receive the amount of rain they would if planted out in the open.

SOFTBALL LOOP TO BE HEADED BY JOE BRINK

Joseph Brink, 404 E. Union street, was elected, Tuesday evening, as president of the Circleville Recreation Ball league when managers met to discuss a program for the Summer season.

Among managers who met were Raymond Tomlinson of the Purina Feeds, Raymond H. Smith of the Black and White taxis, L. E. Coffland of Eshelman Feeds, Raymond Anderson of Wallace's Bakery team, and Glenn Weaver, representing the city's Negro youths.

Several other teams are expected to participate in the league organization.

Another meeting will be held within the next week to better perfect the organization.

LOUIS READY TO LEAVE COAST; TO RETURN AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, April 19—Joe Louis, who knocked out Jack Roper in two minutes and 20 seconds in the first round of their world heavyweight title bout at Wrigley Field Monday night, was to leave today for Chicago.

Mike Jacobs, who with Tom Gallery promoted the bout, was en route to San Francisco to see the Golden Gate Exposition before going on to New York.

Joe said he guessed he was lucky and that he knew he had been hit by Roper before he polished him off.

"He stung me good once," said Joe. "I wasn't bad hurt, but I sure enough knew I was hit."

Jacobs promised another title bout for Los Angeles next year, but was rather vague about it. He said perhaps a Louis-Maxie Rosenbloom bout might be made as soon as the champion fulfills his present obligations, which will keep him busy for the rest of the year.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, April 19
WHILE THERE are auguries of many progressive and happy conditions on this day, according to planetary configurations, there are also some portentous testimonies. There is danger through too drastic action, which has omens of far-reaching and radical effect on both business and personal life. It would be well to move cautiously, with precision and definite plans, being circumspect with superiors and those in power. With this and good acumen there may be decided benefits and desired climaxes.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves launched in a year of sudden and drastic activity, with affairs disturbed in a rather revolutionary manner and with far-reaching effect. But with sagacity and caution there is much to be gained. Tact and precaution are recommended when dealing with employers, superiors or those in authority.

A child, born on this day, although talented, studious and ambitious, may encounter obstacles and frustrations despite some swift-moving periods of activity. Subtle difficulties may cause grave anxiety or discouragement.

Everybody seems to be over-matched these days. First it was the Czechs against the Nazis. Then it was Albania against Italy. And now it's Jack Roper against Joe Louis.

SPEAKER SEES LITTLE CHANCE OF YANKEE LOSS

CLEVELAND, April 19 — The American League race, conceded by most experts to the New York Yankees, might be close, with the outside chance of an upset if one or more teams show unexpected improvement.

That is the opinion of Tris Speaker, the old grey eagle, one of the greatest ballplayers of all time.

Speaker said today that while it looked like another fairly easy pennant for the Yanks, anything could happen in baseball, and he hopes something does.

"I hope the league is strengthened to where it'll be a better race," Speaker said. "I hope some club, or several clubs, are strengthened enough to keep the Yankees down in the race all through the season, with an outside chance of another team beating them out."

Speaker pointed out that chances had been all through the league, that some team might be a surprise and upset all the predictions. Most likely to rout the Yankees, in order, are Boston, Detroit and Cleveland, he said.

But these clubs are not the only ones that might chance the race. He said the St. Louis Browns will be the most improved club in the league if they can get some pitching.

SOFTBALL LOOP TO BE HEADED BY JOE BRINK

Joseph Brink, 404 E. Union street, was elected, Tuesday evening, as president of the Circleville Recreation Ball league when managers met to discuss a program for the summer season.

Among managers who met were Raymond Tomlinson of the Purina Feeds, Raymond H. Smith of the Black and White taxis, L. E. Coffland of Eshelman Feeds, Raymond Anderson of Wallace's Bakery team, and Glenn Weaver, representing the city's Negro youths.

Several other teams are expected to participate in the league organization.

Another meeting will be held within the next week to better perfect the organization.

LOUIS READY TO LEAVE COAST; TO RETURN AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, April 19—Joe Louis, who knocked out Jack Roper in two minutes and 20 seconds in the first round of their world heavyweight title bout at Wrigley Field Monday night, was to leave today for Chicago.

Mike Jacobs, who with Tom Gallery promoted the bout, was en route to San Francisco to see the Golden Gate Exposition before going on to New York.

Joe said he guessed he was lucky and that he knew he had been hit by Roper before he polished him off.

"He stung me good once," said Joe. "I wasn't bad hurt, but I sure enough knew I was hit."

Jacobs promised another title-bout for Los Angeles next year, but was rather vague about it. He said perhaps a Louis-Maxie Rosenbloom bout might be made as soon as the champion fulfills his present obligations, which will keep him busy for the rest of the year.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, April 19 WHILE THERE are auguries of many progressive and happy conditions on this day, according to planetary configurations, there are also some portentous testimonies. There is danger through too drastic action, which has omens of far-reaching and radical effect on both business and personal life. It would be well to move cautiously, with precision and definite plans, being circumspect with superiors and those in power. With this and good action there may be decided benefits and desired climaxes.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves launched in a year of sudden and drastic activity, with affairs disturbed in a rather revolutionary manner and with far-reaching effect. But with sagacity and caution there is much to be gained. Tact and precaution are recommended when dealing with employers, superiors or those in authority.

A child, born on this day, although talented, studious and ambitious, may encounter obstacles and frustrations despite some swift-moving periods of activity. Subtle difficulties may cause grave anxiety or discouragement.

Everybody seems to be over-matched these days. First it was the Czechs against the Nazis. Then it was Albania against Italy. And now it's Jack Roper against Joe Louis.

Trio Of League Jousts Played

NEW YORK, April 19—Major league clubs were hopefully ready today for another attempt to open the baseball season on all fronts after yesterday's drenched, bedraggled and curtailed start, which was made in weather that washed out all except three contests and slashed an expected aggregate attendance of 250,000 to a bit under 118,000.

Biggest crowd of the day was 47,000 at Detroit for the Chicago White Sox-Tiger battle, while the day's outstanding individual performance was contributed in the New York Giants-Dodger game at Brooklyn, where Zeke Bonura began to pay dividends on the Giants' investment in him.

There are times when the big Italian from New Orleans seems to be playing first base with two left feet. It was such moments that led his former managers, Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox and Bucky Harris of the Senators to remark that Zeke would kick away more games than he could possibly win with his hitting in a New York uniform.

Their dire forecasts may yet come true but today both his new manager, Bill Terry, and the Giant fans are entirely satisfied with the good-natured first baseman.

There are also times, however, when Zeke looks like a fair imitation of Jimmy Fox or Hank Greenberg and yesterday was one of those times. All Zeke did was to handle 16 chances without a bobbie, hit a homer and two singles, drive in three runs and score two more himself.

And since the Giants won, 7 to 3, you can readily see that Zeke played no little part in spoiling the Dodger inaugural for more than 25,000 rabid Brooklyn fans who braved rain and cold to get a first glimpse of their 1939 hopes.

What they saw wasn't half bad at that. It's true the Giants fell on Rookies Evans, Hutchinson and Jeffcoat for 13 hits and that Manager Leo Durocher kicked in with a couple of costly errors, but the Dodgers showed plenty of power in tagging their old nemesis, Harry Gumbert, for nine hits, one of which was a homer by Dolph Camilli.

The Cardinals spoiled the Pirate opener in Pittsburgh by trimming the home team, 3 to 2, before more than 15,000 fans. Bob Klingner seemed to be headed for a 2-0 shut-out until the Cardinals' twin strong-arm contingent, Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize unloaded in the seventh.

Medwick singled two home with the bags loaded and Mize's long hoist accounted for the winning margin for Bob Weiland.

The Reds and Cubs and Phillies and Bees were washed out and also spoiled openings between the the inconsiderate weather man Red Sox and Yanks, Senators and Athletics and Indians and Browns.

However, 47,000 hardy natives braved a steady drizzle in Detroit to see the Tigers trounce the White Sox, 6-1, in the only American league game.

More important than the victory, was the evidence that little Tommy Bridges has returned to the form he knew two years ago. The slender right hander spread seven hits while the Tigers were pounding Johnny Rigney and Bill Dietrich for an even dozen safeties.

BITE HAND THAT FEEDS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., — Convict labor reached a new peak in thoroughness recently when three Woodbury County jail trustees were put to work with sledge hammers to destroy confiscated slot machines. The trio had been sentenced for gambling.

TWO NOMINATED FOR ELECTRIFICATION POST; LINE CONTRACT AWARDED

ADVISORY BOARD MEETS TO MAKE TRUSTEE CHOICE

Work in Western District Of Pickaway County Awaits Approval Of Papers

Two important meetings in the rural electrification program in Pickaway county were held Tuesday, one in Circleville for nomination of two men, one to be elected a trustee of the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative the other in Lancaster to award the contract for construction of lines in the western section of the county.

William Green, Scioto township, and Newell Stevenson, N. Court street, farmer in Jackson township, were nominated Tuesday night for the position of trustee. The new trustee will be elected by the trustees of the cooperative.

The two men were nominated by the Pickaway county advisory board under the rural electrification program. The new trustee will succeed Marvin Steeley, Washington township, who resigned recently from the board of trustees. Mr. Steeley said he submitted his resignation because both he and Ralph Head of Pickaway township, the other Pickaway county trustee, were from the eastern portion of the county. He believed the western section, in which lines will be constructed soon, should be represented on the board. The cooperative embraces Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties.

A special meeting of the trustees was held Tuesday afternoon in Lancaster to award the contract for line construction in the western part of the county. The contract was awarded to the Anders Asphalt Paving Co., of Hamilton. Approval of the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington is necessary for the contract. It is planned to start work on the new project about May 1.

About 200 miles of lines serving 600 customers are to be erected in the western part of the county.

JAPAN AWAITS PERSONAL NOTE FROM PRESIDENT

TOYKO, April 19—President Roosevelt intends to send a personal note to the Japanese government similar to his week-end peace appeal to Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini, the newspaper Asahi reported today.

According to the newspaper, the American President will offer the good offices of the United States in calling a conference on far eastern problems.

As an alternative, the message would repeat the peace proposals sent to Germany and Italy, Asahi said.

The United States embassy disclaimed all knowledge of the report, as did the Japanese foreign office, where a spokesman attributed the story to "journalistic imagination."

BRITAIN ARRESTS MAN ON CHARGE OF ESPIONAGE

LONDON, April 19—Joseph Kelly, 30, was arraigned at Chorley, Lancashire, today on charges of stealing the site plan of the royal ordnance factory at Euxton, allegedly on behalf of the German secret service.

Nephew Of Nation's First Lady Air Crash Victim

MEXICO CITY, April 19—Plans were under way today to send home the bodies of two young Americans, one of them a nephew of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who were killed late yesterday when their plane crashed near Guadalupe Victoria in the state of Puebla.

The victims were Bronson H. "Pete" Rumsey of New York City and Sand Point, Long Island, and Daniel Roosevelt of Dedham, Mass. Both were students at Harvard university.

Miss Carlota Constantine, former student at Sarah Lawrence college and daughter of Arthur Constantine, International News Service bureau chief at Mexico City, suffered a broken leg in the crash.

Rumsey, a Harvard junior, and young Roosevelt, a senior, arrived at Mexico City more than a week ago and spent a holiday sightseeing by air.

The young men, with Miss Constantine as a passenger, started on a flight to New York yesterday despite warnings of airport officials that weather conditions between the Mexican capital and the coast were bad.

NEW YORK, April 19—G. Hall Roosevelt, a brother of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, left by train early today for Washington, D. C., to board a plane for Mexico where his son, Daniel Stewart Roosevelt, was killed in a plane crash.

Roosevelt had intended leaving in a chartered plane from Newark but zero weather forced cancellation of those plans. He will take an American airlines plane for Fort Worth, Tex., where a connection will be made for Mexico City.

TURNER TO PLAY ROMEO IN PLAY AT CAPITAL U.

Though none was so successful as Oakley Turner of Atlanta and Kay Mayer of Columbus, the fact that Capital university has many would-be Romeos and Juliets was definitely proven by the large number of Cap-eds and co-eds who tried out for the title roles of the famous Shakespearean drama which is to be given as a part of the traditional May-Day exercises here on May 13.

Turner, who has had many leading roles during his years in Capital dramatics, will head the cast of Professor Craig's latest production in the part of Romeo. He is the son of C. O. Turner, Atlanta.

WATER LEAVES CANAL HIGHWAY

All Roads In County Open To Cars; Ohio At Crest; Red Park Flooded

The canal road, a county highway extending from Route 22 to Route 104, closed by high water since Sunday, was open to traffic Wednesday. This road was the only one in the county closed Tuesday by flood waters.

The temperature dropped to 41 degrees Wednesday. Highest temperature Tuesday was 71 degrees. Rainfall in the 24 hours previous to 8 a. m. Wednesday was only a trace.

CINCINNATI, April 19—Rising slowly between Steubenville, O., and Cairo, Ill., the Ohio river today surged on to its crest, but reports of falling tributaries indicated the threat of a major flood was over.

Crest of 58 or 59 feet was predicted for this point late today or tomorrow by W. C. Devereaux, meteorologist. Flood stage is 52 feet. At Pittsburgh the stream was receding slowly.

Devereaux said the following levels would be reached today at various points:

Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., 44-45 feet; Huntington, W. Va., 51-52 feet; Ashland, Ky., 56-57 feet; Portsmouth, O., and Maysville, Ky., 56-57 feet.

Flood relief work was progressing smoothly in this area with no emergency measures put into effect.

CINCINNATI, O., April 19—With the outfield at the Crosley baseball park covered with several inches of water and the swollen Ohio river still rising, it seemed likely today that the baseball game between the Cincinnati Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday would be called off.

Flood waters filled the dugouts and covered the first two rows of the field boxes. The pitcher's box would be covered if the stream reached the predicted 59-foot stage. The scheduled match will be played if the water recedes by Friday, baseball officials promised.

MAY ROBSON HONORED

HOLLYWOOD, April 19—"May Robson day" was celebrated today at the Warner Brothers lot, with more than 300 guests scheduled to attend a "diamond luncheon" in honor of Miss Robson's 75th birthday anniversary. Representatives from various studios, social leaders, writers and civic officials were to pay tribute to the silver-haired lady of the screen.

NO. 1 ACTRESS VICTIM OF SUN STROKE AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD, April 19—Overcome for the second time by sunstroke, Bette Davis, acclaimed as Hollywood's No. 1 actress, collapsed on the set yesterday and has been ordered to bed until her condition improves.

The attack is less severe than the one suffered by the star last Summer but, according to attending physicians, there is little chance of Bette returning to face the cameras before the end of the week.

An abnormal sensitivity to the sun is described as the reason for the actress' collapse. Last Sunday, Bette, clad in a bathing suit, spent several hours in the yard of her Brentwood home. She felt no bad effects immediately but complained of illness on Monday and finally broke down on the sound stage where she was doing a scene for "The Old Maid."

The star's previous attack kept her in bed for almost three weeks.
